

Your hurricane emergency plans Buttoned Up.™

There are simple things you can do in 20 minutes or less each day that will get you prepared for hurricane season where it counts. Set an egg timer for 20 minutes each night this week and you'll be amazed at what you can check off.

hurricane preparedness checklist
Emergency Plan
I've identified a safe meeting place close to home	<input type="checkbox"/>
I've identified a meeting place farther from home in case we need to evacuate	<input type="checkbox"/>
I've selected an out-of-state contact that everyone can reach to relay news to in case you are separated	<input type="checkbox"/>
State of the Union
I've reviewed the emergency plan with my entire family—everyone knows where to go, who to call in the event of a hurricane emergency	<input type="checkbox"/>
Insurance Plan
I've cataloged the items of value in my house and know what I'd have to replace in the event of a flood/hurricane damage	<input type="checkbox"/>
I've double checked I have flood insurance & if I didn't—I went to FEMA to get it	<input type="checkbox"/>
Important Documents
I've put important legal, insurance, medical, and financial documents in a place I can easily grab them if I need to evacuate	<input type="checkbox"/>
I've identified other key items, like photos, I'd want to take with me if we have to evacuate	<input type="checkbox"/>
Emergency Kit
My emergency kit is packed and ready to go (water, canned food, first aid kit, cash, baby/pet supplies as needed)	<input type="checkbox"/>